40 years of exceptional coffee

'71

First Starbucks store opens in Seattle's Pike Place Market, serving whole bean coffee, tea and spices.

'84

After an inspiring trip to Italy, Howard Schultz tests coffeehouse concept, where first Starbucks Caffè Latte is served.

'92

Starbucks becomes a public company, with 165 stores in U.S. and Canada.

'11

Celebrates 40th Anniversary in 55 countries around the world.

Starbucks today

- More than 50 million customers each week
- 17,420 retail stores
- 155,000 partners

Our Starbucks Mission

To inspire and nurture the human spirit—one person, one cup, and one neighborhood at a time.

Our Coffee

Our commitment to quality

We've always believed in serving the best coffee possible – with our coffee nurtured from bean to cup without ever leaving our care.

Starbucks® Roast

- The Starbucks® Roast is not a time, temperature or color – it's a philosophy.
- Our coffee beans realize their full potential only through careful batch roasting – a process monitored and adjusted constantly by our skilled roasting experts.
- Our tradition is built on an artisanal approach of hand selecting, roasting and blending each individual recipe.

C.A.F.E. Practices

C.A.F.E. Practices is a set of measurable standards focused on the following areas:

Over the last decade, Conservation International has helped us develop buying guidelines that address our principles for ethical sourcing. Called Coffee and Farmer Equity (C.A.F.E.) Practices, these guidelines help our farmers grow coffee in a way that's better for both people and the planet.

Our Partners

Our Partners

We're called partners, because we passionately share common goals and mutual success.

We do this by:

- Embracing diversity
- Treating one another with respect and dignity
- Fostering a flexible and progressive work environment

Our Partners

We're called partners because we passionately share common goals and mutual success.

Leadership

My Starbucks Journey as a Leader

- Educated myself about Starbucks
 - Understanding the customer's connection to Starbucks
 - Recognizing the responsibility of each partner to embody who Starbucks aspires to be as an organization
 - Helped pick the leaders of the future and built the brand
- Project Management – it's about risk and buy in
 - How this plays out in my current role
- Transformational Agenda – it's about belief and substance
 - Making critical choices
 - Passing the “Litmus Test”
- Director of Licensed Stores – it's about relationships
 - Working with other great brands and organizations to understand the role of the licensed store in relentlessly delivering the Starbucks experience

Some Things I Have Learned as a Leader

- Don't play it safe – take risks!
- Do continue to develop yourself and your professional skills
- Do build on your strengths and acknowledge what you like
- Don't underestimate your impact or your wake
- Don't do all the talking, but do ask questions
- Do journal

Our Customers

Our Customers

When we are fully engaged, we connect with, laugh with, and uplift the lives of our customers— even if just for a few moments.

We do this by:

- Dedicating ourselves to world-class customer service

Our Neighborhood

Our Neighborhood

From the neighborhoods where our stores are located, to the places where our coffee is grown – we help communities thrive by nurturing and inspiring our partners and youth to engage and lead.

We do this by:

- Mobilizing partners and customers in community leadership and service efforts
- Engaging young people through Starbucks Youth Action Grants

Our Shareholders

Our Shareholders

We know that as we deliver in each of these areas, we enjoy the kind of success that rewards our shareholders. We are fully accountable to get each of these elements right so that Starbucks—and everyone it touches—can endure and thrive.
